

POWERS DO NOT TAKE KINDLY TO SHIPS' SEARCH

Booze Traffic Compared With

Washington—Some of the foreign governments are not taking kindly to the idea of giving the American government an unlimited right of search and seizure in time of peace with respect to foreign vessels coming within twelve miles of the American shore.

The point is made that searches are not always made with discretion and that there is a good chance of breeding ill-feeling when a search is made purely on suspicion.

EMBARRASSING SITUATION
The situation is one of the most embarrassing that has confronted the American government. It grows out of the fact the Supreme Court of the United States has rendered a decision which some officials of the government think could easily have been avoided.
The eighteenth amendment, for instance, makes it clear that the importation of liquors for beverage purposes is prohibited. High officials say that liquor brought in by a foreign ship under seal cannot, by the remotest stretch of the imagination be constructed as an introduction of liquor into the United States for beverage purposes.

But the Supreme court has made its decision. And most everybody in the government from President Harding down believes congress never intended to have the Volstead act cover the things which now are inferred or derived from the statute. Thus official Washington is confronted with the spectacle of a piece of law on the books which congress didn't intend and the Supreme court interpreting the law in a way that embarrasses the executive branch of the government in its relations with foreign countries.

FOREIGN POWERS CAUTIOUS
Secretary Hughes' plan is to solve the whole thing by diplomacy. He wants foreign governments to agree to the right of search twelve miles from shore in return for which he believes congress would relax the regulations permitting foreign ships to bring liquor into American ports under seal. Foreign governments are very cautious, however, about establishing precedents in one case that might later be applied to another set of circumstances.

If the record of the United States government in cooperating with foreign governments had been better, European foreign offices would be more willingly disposed to listen to American proposals than is now the case.
For example, the United States contends that rum smuggling means a conspiracy to violate American laws and that foreign flags are used on the rum fleet merely as a protection against seizure. Foreign governments, however, have tried in vain to get the United States government to sign a treaty whereby this country would agree to forbid the exportation of arms and ammunition to foreign countries, so that there might be less opportunity for disturbing the peace of the world through domestic revolutions or war. American insists today on the right to ship arms anywhere in the world. The right to do so is not questioned by foreign powers but the wisdom of doing it is seriously questioned.

SONG NEGOTIATION
American munition manufacturers are said to have helped to some extent in preventing the treaty about exportation of arms from being ratified. The regulation of the arms traffic is one of the international problems which is supposed to be a convenience to nations large and small who realize America's capacity for making war weapons is just now unlimited. When America wants liquor kept out of her territory because it is likely to aid in violating American laws, the probability of the foreign governments, before granting the request will seek to examine the whole question in the light of future cooperation on the part of the United States in assisting other countries in meeting inconveniences of export and import trade intolerable to them. It means a long period of protracted negotiation.

By Associated Press
St. Louis—Seld Allaway, 30, proprietor of a confectionery, and his wife, Helen, 26, were found shot to death presumably while asleep, in their home here Saturday morning.
Police ascribed the double killing to the work of a maniac. A man, said to be Hammie Shane, 25, cousin to Allaway, and a roomer at his home, was arrested in connection with the killings.
Shane, who was a clerk in the confectionery, attempted to commit suicide by butting his head against the bars in a cell at police headquarters.
When police arrived at the home, Shane's clothing was stained with blood, and two pistols with the cas-sides discharged were found. There were ten bullet wounds in Allaway's

NEW AUTO TAX MIGHT GO INTO EFFECT JULY 1

Measures Awaiting Blaine's Approval Will Change Taxing System

By Associated Press
Madison—Wisconsin automobile owners are faced with a new highway financing program of vital concern to every driver of a motor vehicle, now that the two major road tax measures of the present legislative session are before Governor Blaine for approval. If accepted by the executive an entirely new taxing system for automobiles will go into effect on July 1 of this year.

If the governor signs the bills, after July 1 every motorist in Wisconsin will pay a 2 cent tax on each gallon of gasoline purchased by him. By applying this flat tax the state will realize $8,000,000 annually for road purposes, the highway commission estimates.

The proposed graduated license fee based upon weight, if signed will take the place of the present flat $10 license fee and will be applied next January. This measure would raise $6,000,000 annually according to the commission estimates.

Following are the rates proposed in the weight tax bill and to be applied to all automobiles in the state if that measure is approved by Governor Blaine:

For automobiles weighing 1600 lbs.
or less—$10
For vehicles weighing more than 1600
and less than 1800 lbs.—$11.
For vehicles of more than 1800 and
less than 2000 lbs.—$12.
For vehicles of more than 2000 and
less than 2400 lbs.—$13.
For vehicles of more than 2400 and
less than 2800 lbs.—$14.
For vehicles of more than 2800 and
less than 3200 lbs.—$16.
For vehicles of more than 3200 and
less than 3600 lbs.—$18.
For vehicles of more than 3600 and
less than 4000 lbs.—$20.
For vehicles of more than 4000 and
less than 4500 lbs.—$22.
For vehicles over 4500 lbs. and under 5000 lbs.—$24.
All vehicles over 5000 lbs.—$26.

If the automobile owner can certify that his car has been used five years or more a deduction of 25 per cent in the license fee would be allowed, except that no fee may be lower than $10.
Motor truck fees provided in the bill
now before the governor call for a $10 charge against trucks of 1 1/2 tons
or less.

For trucks more than 1 1/2 tons and
less than 2 1/4 tons—$15.
For trucks more than 2 1/4 tons and
less than 3 tons—$20.
For trucks more than 3 tons and
less than 4 tons—$20.
For trucks more than 4 tons and
less than 5 tons—$45.

For trucks with gross weight of 5 tons or more, a fee of $45 plus a fee of $20 for each ton or fractions thereof in excess of 5 tons. Passenger carrying busses pay three times the motor truck fee for the same weight.

SUNDAY IS 250TH ANNIVERSARY OF COMING OF MARQUETTE TO WISCONSIN

By Associated Press
Madison—Two French explorers
two hundred and fifty years ago Saturday were paddling down the Wisconsin river on a mission ordered by Governor Count Frontenac, that of discovering the source of the upper Mississippi river. On June 17, 1673, Jacques Marquette, a French missionary, accompanied by Louis Joliet, a French Canadian, broke out upon the Mississippi near Prairie du Chien, the first white men to locate America's greatest inland waterway. This event of marked historical importance, which opened the trade route that led to the development of Wisconsin and the middle west is to be celebrated at Prairie du Chien Sunday.

The governors of Wisconsin and Iowa are to participate in the celebration. The Wisconsin legislature passed a resolution urging the people of the state to cooperate in making the event
a success.
"This discovery together with the resulting exploration of the Mississippi river and its tributaries, opened up avenues of trade and development and marked the line of settlement and commerce of our own state and the great Northwest and was the real beginning of Wisconsin's growth," the legislature said.

With this realization in mind Campion college, in charge of the Jesuit order to which James Marquette belonged, is sponsoring the celebration and pageant to be carried out Sunday.

Historical aspects of the discovery are to be developed. Speakers will recount how Marquette and Joliet set out from Mackinaw on May 27, 1673 commissioned to find the Mississippi.
They traveled with their party of seven in two large birch canoes.
Arriving at Green Bay late in May,
the explorers paddled up the river,
passing the rapids by Portage and then forced their way on to the course of the stream where guides were obtained from an Indian village.

Crossing to the Wisconsin, the party floated down that stream for a week, entering the Mississippi above Prairie du Chien on June 17. They navigated down the river to a point below the Arkansas and then, fearing the Spaniards, they returned by way of the Illinois river and overland to Lake Michigan. Late in September the party, after a four months' absence arrived in Green Bay, having traveled 2,550 miles by canoe. By his explorations Marquette established the fact that the Mississippi river could be reached by one of the Great Lakes and was not connected with the Pacific ocean as generally believed at that time.

While Marquette enjoys the distinction of having discovered the upper Mississippi, Ferdinand De Soto, a Spanish explorer, is credited with having first discovered this "father of waters" over one hundred years before.
He first viewed the river in 1541 at its lower end.

ady was on duty. Robbery of the

by the state senate. The other two same is purchased on time was passed to third reading. The assembly killed 27 to 24, the Johnson bill authorizing

Rum Boats
Battle With
Dry Sleuths

By Associated Press
Atlantic City, N. J.—A running fight in which several volleys of shots were exchanged occurred early Saturday between rum runners and government boats. Many bullets whistled over the board walk, driving night owls to cover. Shortly before midnight, two government boats from Barnegat pa-

eral runners about 200 feet from shore attempting to make a landing. The government craft, calling on the smugglers to stop attempted to surround them. The runners escaped in the fog after putting on full speed, sweeping in so close to shore that they almost touched bottom, and then dashing in single file out to sea. Both sides exchanged shots freely.

BILLION NEEDED
TO AID RAILROADS

Huge Increase In Facilities
Needed For Anticipated Business

By Associated Press
Milwaukee—The railroads of the country will require about $1,200,000, 000 a year for additional facilities to handle their business, basing the estimate on the present cost of labor, materials and equipment, George G.
Boardman, secretary of the western railways committee on public relations, said in an address Saturday before the National association of Retail Secretaries. He gave figures to show the increase in efficiency of management
since the roads returned to private operation after government control.

Three years ago, he said, the roads were turned back to their owners with more than 2,000,000 employees, or 277, 000 more than before the government took over operation of the lines. Thus far this year, he added, the roads had operated with more than 200,000 employees less than at the close of federal operation. Thus releasing these two hundred thousand workers to other fields. The average wage paid in 1919, during government control was $1.19,
and the average wage this year is at the rate of $1.664.

He declared that the roads represented an investment of $21,000,000, 000 and that in add-on $8,000,000,000 charged to operating expenses, and therefore not given to stockholders was invested for addition and betterments.

"The valuation of $13,900,000,000
found by the interstate commerce commission over three years ago should not be ruthlessly cut down to thirteen billion dollars, as advocated by Senators LaFollette and Brookhart and others, simply to satisfy the whims and caprices of those who have never been in a position to present a valid reason for any reduction in valuation," the speaker asserted.

"Lack of suitable railroad facilities
last year caused a loss to the farmers alone of about $700,000,000 or just about the amount they paid in freight rates."

By Associated Press
Pittsburg, Pa.—A shower of city firemen, trapped by flaming oil in the Atlantic Renning storage yards here Saturday afternoon when one tank collapsed and several others exploded, succeeded in winning their way to safety through the sea of flame. Fire department officials said no firemen were missing. More than a score of injured, suffering from burns, bruises and shock, have been removed to hospitals.

Pittsburg—A score of city firemen were trapped at the Atlantic refining company storage yards when a big oil tank, burning since Friday collapsed
Saturday afternoon, two explosions
following the collapse of the tank, showering flaming oil over an area of two squares. All ambulances in the city were summoned to the scene.

Persons watching the progress of the fire were burned when they were caught under the showers of oil. The trapped firemen were at work in the storage yards near the tank. Without warning, the big container sagged and a moment later the entire plant was a sea of flames. Firemen attempting to slow down the burning found it difficult to get near the yards because of the intense heat and insecure footing.

While firemen were battling to reach their comrades, a small tank containing gasoline exploded, driving them back. Seven injured have been received at hospitals, all burned.

The burning oil, after spreading to all sections of the storage yards, flowed across the Allegheny valley railroad tracks and set fire to the United Engineering foundry and the sundrum paint plants. The oil then made its way to the Allegheny river and soon the river surface in the Lawrenceville section was covered by the burning oil.

NEED 150 GIRLS TO SELL BOOSTER BUTTONS, JUNE 23

Perfect Organization To Finance Independence Day Celebration

One hundred to one-hundred-fifty young women are wanted to volunteer their services in the Booster Button sale on June 23. The committee in charge of this phase of the celebration at a meeting Friday evening decided this number of workers is necessary. An effort will be made by the committee to obtain the services of young women of responsibility inasmuch as large sums of money will be handled.

The Booster Buttons will be sold to raise money to finance the Independence day celebration sponsored by Oney Johnston post of the American Legion. Every person in Appleton will be asked to buy these buttons. The minimum price will be 25 cents, but persons who can afford to pay more will be asked to contribute more liberally toward paying the expenses. It is estimated the cost of the celebration will be between $2,500 and $3,500 and at least $2,500 of this amount must be raised by the sale of buttons. Five thousand buttons have been received and they must sell for an average of 50 cents each to raise the required amount.

The young women workers will be stationed on the streets, in stores, offices, banks, public buildings, to sell buttons to every person they meet. Purchasers will be requested to wear the buttons until after July 4 to indicate they have contributed toward paying the celebration expenses.

The committee Friday evening selected division chairmen to take charge of the sale in various parts of the city. Young women who are willing to assist in this work can volunteer by telephoning to any of the division chairmen listed below:

FACTORIES—Mrs. Phil Miller, telephone 812.

STREETS—Mrs. Daniel Boyle, telephone 1250.

STORES, BARS AND HOTELS—Mrs. John Engle, telephone 804R.

'BARNEY GOOGLE' POPULAR AS MUSIC

"Barney Google" has been the most popular sheet music this week at local music stores, according to the reports Friday by music dealers. The selection has been on the market only a few weeks but from the stir it has already created it promises to be a big hit for some time. "Yes, We Have No Bananas" has been the second best number. Both pieces are as popular in records as they are in sheet music. The other selection which has been in great demand this last week has been "Swinging Down the Lane." It too has had a big record sale.

The most popular numbers at each of the four music stores have been: Meyer-Seeger Music Co.: Yes, We Have No Bananas. Barney Google That Red Head Gal. Sweet Lovin' Mamma, Who's Sorry Now. Carroll's Music Shop: Yes, We Have No Bananas. Barney Google. You've Got to See Mamma Every

Will Guide Freshmen To Right Choice Of Studies

A system by which freshmen at Lawrence college will be directed toward the goal of a unified, cultural and at the same time practical education according to their individual abilities, aptitudes and aims has been instituted at Lawrence college with the creation of the position of director of admissions and dean of freshmen Dr. R. C. Mullenix has been appointed to this position.

There is a growing tendency among the colleges to raise the standards of education by making eligibility the result of tests and requirements which will lead toward more serious study and more scientific experimentation. Lawrence has always been a leader in educational methods and by means of the appointment of a freshman council which will work with the dean of freshmen, it will attempt to keep abreast of the times.

Because the question of who should go to college is becoming increasingly important as the number of young people to whom education is financially possible becomes greater it is said. A study of what is best for each student, based upon information gained by the new dean and his council, is the purpose of the change in handling new students at Lawrence.

Dr. Mullenix will continue in his position as head of the department of zoology and will teach in the department. Miss Lois Cochran has been engaged to be assistant in the department.

NOMINATIONS FOR QUEEN OF LEGION START WITH BANG

Big Field Of Candidates Is Assured In Legion's Popularity Contest

Immediate interest in the effort of Oney Johnston post of the American Legion to find the most popular young woman in Outagamie-co to be crowned Legion Queen on Independence day is indicated in the nominations which are pouring into the legion queen headquarters. The first announcement was hardly off the press when the nominations began to be made and it will not be surprising if nearly 100 young women are entered in the contest.

A diamond ring, valued at $100 will be given to the young woman receiving the largest number of votes and in addition she will be crowned legion queen at the celebration in Pierce park and will receive all the honors accorded a queen. The young woman receiving the next largest number of votes is to be given a diamond ring valued at $75 and the third place winner will be given a $50 diamond ring. Winners of second and third places are to be attendants to the queen and will participate in the ceremonies.

Nominations must be made before midnight on June 19 so that voting can be started the next day. Nominations must be made by young women in the district in which the person making the nomination lives. Votes, however, may be solicited anywhere.

American legion posts outside of Appleton are cooperating to select the most popular young woman. Ten per cent of the money collected with the votes will go to the post in charge of the district in which the candidate was nominated.

The city of Appleton is divided into six districts with each ward a district. Outside of Appleton the districts, with the legion post in charge are:

- NEW LONDON POST—New London, Liberty, Maple Creek.
- HORTONVILLE POST—Hortonville, Hortonville, Ellington.
- DALE POST—Dale, Medina, Greenville.
- SHOCTON POST—Shoction, Bovi-na, Main and Deer Creek.
- BLACK CREEK POST—Black Creek, Cicero, Osborne.
- SEYMOUR POST—City and town of Seymour, Oneida.
- KAUKAUNA POST—Kaukauna, town of Buchanan.
- FREEDOM POST—Freedom, Center, town of Kaukauna.
- LITTLE CHUTE POST—Little Chute, Vandenberg, Kimberly and Grand Chute.

100 FAMILIES TO BE AT K. P. OUTING

Appleton Lodge Will Participate in Valley Degree Work At Neenah

More than 100 Knights of Pythias and their families are planning to attend the Fox river valley picnic of the lodge at Neenah on June 29. The afternoon will be devoted to ritualistic work. The Watertown and Mayville lodges will confer the degrees.

If the Oshkosh lodge continues its plans for the establishment of a temple of the Dramatic Order of Knights of Khorassan, the Appleton lodge probably will have a large number of initiates. At the present time, Racine is the nearest temple where this degree known in the lodge as the "Doky" degree can be conferred. The Oshkosh lodge is now making plans for the establishment of a temple, but Appleton hopes to locate it here.

Summer Marketing Slump Is Evident In Valley Papermills

With summer at hand, the usual summer slump in the American paper market is being felt by paper industries of the Fox river valley and is already reacting to some extent upon subsidiary industries.

Production has not slackened noticeably and a layoff of help is not expected this summer, according to a leading paper manufacturer of the valley. The mills are suffering rather from a shortage of labor caused principally by the increased building operations. The tendency now is to stock up.

A falling off in the market was expected by paper manufacturers several months ago as the buyers' fear of high prices became apparent.

A prevailing belief of large buyers that prices would come down from the plane to which they had gradually advanced since a year ago induced them to abandon, more or less, the policy of stockpiling up with large orders and to change back again to the hand-to-mouth plan of small orders.

Rising prices in paper of practically all grades came as a result of the several increases in wages last year, and the increased price of coal, wood and rags. The market price had not reached the peak of a few years previous, however.

The expected drop in the price of rags, which usually follows upon the spring housecleaning time, failed to materialize this spring, owing to a large drain on the market caused by buyers of rags for use in manufacture of roofing material.

UPLIFTING MOVIE PATRONS

Henry W. Taft, brother of the chief justice of the supreme court, believes the time has come when the moving picture should give the public "what it should have," and not what it wants or is supposed to desire. What it should have is "something above the level of material now being fed to it," he says. What Mr. Taft seems to think the public should have is expressed in another line. He says, "Things requiring an exercise of the reflective faculty have ceased to be popular." Have they? And can the audience be forced to think? And will they, to the exclusion of the fat box office for the pictures which now, as Mr. Taft complains, "Afford chiefly excitement, diversion and amusement?"

Mr. Taft was speaking to the movie men themselves, and they in the end will answer. The movies exert a powerful influence. But before they start to "uplift"—there seems no better word for it just yet—might not the movies begin to eliminate some of the sickly sentimentalism and overemphasized sex stuff before beginning to make us think too much while ostensibly seeking amusement and diversion? We venture the guess that right now the public is not getting what it wants from the movies generally. The notable exceptions are the few intelligent producers and stars who have discovered that the movie public is not thinking in terms of lurid drama, saccharine love-making and nauseating sex drama. The movies have a good deal to do before they begin to assume the role of moral and intellectual crusaders.

THE DEATH PENALTY

The verdict of the Russian court at Moscow that Vasilii Komaroff should die before the firing squad for the murder of thirty-three persons gives an interesting insight into the workings of the soviet legal procedure which recognizes the death penalty for only two crimes: treason and for a felony which indicates the criminal to be an enemy of society.

There is little in the general scheme of soviet government which America can find to admire but this handling of the death penalty is progressive, to say the least. A man guilty of treason automatically forfeits his life upon conviction in Russia and general practice approves that law. Or, when a man commits murder under circumstances which clearly indicate him to be not only an offender against the state but a menace to society as well he must suffer the death penalty. Under this latter provision of the law there can be no question as to the fate which Komaroff deserves.

Sentiment against the death penalty is growing, there is no doubt as to that. At the same time the public is not reconciled to a general abolition of capital punishment when the crime committed is attended with special brutality and lack of justifying circumstance.

SANE PROHIBITION

Great Britain owes much to America for her gift of Lady Nancy Astor, member of parliament and author of the bill to prevent the sale of liquor to young persons. Stanley Baldwin, premier of England, deserves credit for the stand he has taken alongside Lady Astor in pledging the support of the government to the measure.

Great Britain apparently is not prepared to enact prohibition and it is not for America to meddle in the affairs of the British empire and say that it should do so. Yet America cannot but be interested in the disposition which England makes of this pressing question nor can it conceal its delight that the British government is behind the movement to restrict the use of strong drink to adults.

Lady Astor is not a fanatic. She has not demanded over-night reform of excise conditions in England. She does advocate that the matter be handled sanely, however, and the successful step which she is urging is sure to pave the way for better handling of the traffic in the future.

MR. LASKER AND THE MERCHANT MARINE

As he arranges to retire as chairman of the United States Shipping board, Mr. Albert D. Lasker submits to President Harding a new plan for preserving the "commercial navy," built up during the war. "Government operation, however," he says, "should always be with a view to ultimate sale to private owners."

Without discussing Mr. Lasker's scheme in detail, we would repeat that nothing is of greater importance to American commerce, including agriculture, than maintaining a large merchant marine. At the present moment it is hard for us to perceive that international trade means anything to our permanent prosperity, as we are imbued with an assumption that we can thrive in commercial isolation.

When the economic situation is readjusted in Europe, we shall soon find out that our big business positively must have foreign markets. Some means must be found to keep at our command a sufficient number of foreigners to protect and expand our international trade.

SOUVENIR VANDALS

Souvenir hunters have wrecked the "flying flivver" which Georges Barbot, the French aviator, brought to America for demonstration flights after his trip across the English channel. Caught in a high wind, the tiny aircraft was slightly damaged when it was blown into a tree in a New Jersey community. One of the wings was damaged, but only slightly. The curio-seekers, however, cut the wings, removed parts from the engine and otherwise so wrecked the plane that M. Barbot tearfully declared that it was beyond immediate repair and that flights in America might have to be stopped.

The craze of the souvenir hunter is beyond understanding. The wrecking of the Frenchman's plane was an act of vandalism but probably 99 per cent of those who fought and scuffled for the "souvenirs" would resent the accusation.

In the lesser degree, picnickers who strew the highways and parks with bottles and cans and the remains of their luncheons are vandals. The picnic season is on now and citizens who keep their own yards and are careful not to despoil their home town streets with litter and refuse are among the offenders when they go on a picnic. Both classes, the souvenir hunter and the despoiler of parks and highways, should, whenever possible, be summarily dealt with.

TODAY'S POEM

By Berton Braley

WEATHER

"Whether it rain or whether it snow,
We shall have weather, whether or no."
And whether we smile or whether we fuss
The weather won't alter a bit for us.
So when it's foggy we won't complain,
And when it's rainy we'll let it rain.
And when the weather is clear and fine
And Old Sol's shining, we'll let him shine!

All right, all right! That is cheerful stuff,
But just a little of that's enough!
It's true that nothing we do or say
Can change the weather we get each day.
But when we've planned for a day outdoors
And the sky above us just pours and pours
And all our pleasure is on the bum,
We get relief if we grumble some!

"Whether it's cool or whether it's hot,
We shall have weather, whether or not."
But though I'm cheerful as I can be,
I like to feel that I'm wholly free
To kick and growl if I do not like
The kind of weather I chance to strike.
Over the climate I've no dominion—
But, I'm entitled to my opinion!

BOTHER THE BUTCHER

It is wasteful for working people to eat meat (or fish or eggs or fowl) more than once a day in cool weather, and injurious for them to eat it more than three times a week in hot weather.

The abuse of meat eating is not only harmful to the health but unprofitable. A fat, overfed, underworked person who has the temerity to sit down to eat meat twice a day, or meat and fish at the same meal, ought to be fined heavily for each of these.

A little meat in the diet is advisable for most people engaged in active work, though not necessary, and often not advisable for a great many who do their work sitting at a desk. For growing children meat three times a week, or for young babies meat broths three times a week cannot be dispensed with.

Let a little meat go a great way. The flavor of meat and the stimulating effect of the extractives of fresh meats are what the appetite craves. Get it economically by preparing various dishes containing enough meat to give a flavor to the grain, cereal, or other farinaceous material or vegetables, which the recipe. Meat is pretty poor nourishment as compared with bread or potatoes or beans or macaroni and cheese, and a whole lot more expensive. A worker can endure longer without meat in his diet than with it. He can withstand high temperature much more easily without meat than with it.

The evening meal should be the substantial meal of the day for all who work in daytime and rest at night. Midday dinner is wrong for busy people. In fact, people who take breakfast at about 8:00 A. M. are often more healthy and efficient if they take no more food until 6 P. M. dinner, then a light lunch at bedtime if desired.

Macaroni, spaghetti or noobles cooked in broth and served with more dabs of gravy or meat; stews of a hodgepodge of vegetables just flavored with a chunk of the cheapest cut of meat, are worth while.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Shock and Concussion

Will you please explain the difference between shock from an injury and concussion of the brain?

—H. M.
Answer—There is practically no difference, the condition being called shock after ordinary injuries and concussion after head injuries. Shock, concussion, fainting, heart failure, collapse, and the effect of severe hemorrhage (recognized or internal) produce the same general symptoms and call for similar first aid measures. There is pallor, mental dullness or incomplete loss of consciousness, weak, rapid pulse, coldness of the skin and unusually clammy perspiration, dilated pupils and very shallow breathing. Recumbent position with head as low or lower than body, warmth to feet and body, a stimulant such as a teaspoonful of aromatic spirits of ammonia in one-third glass of cold water, or a cup of very strong tea or coffee, but never brandy or whisky, are the important remedies.

Up And Down For Asthma

Is a change of climate likely to benefit chronic asthma? Where is a good place to go?—D. L. J.
Answer—Asthma in children often disappears on removal to a different altitude, as from sea level. Sometimes one subject to asthma, who also has chronic bronchitis improves a great deal on taking residence in any place where he is not afraid of open air life the year round. In short, that is the important ingredient in the climate panacea—if you believe in "taking cold" you have to move somewhere and try to fight it out with your imagination.

Removal of Birthmark

My two months old baby has a birthmark on the bridge of his nose, the shape of a shield and very red. What age should he be before it can be safely removed?—Mrs. L. F. G.

Answer—The younger the baby the better the cosmetic result will be. The surgeon will decide whether the baby is in good condition to have the birthmark treated now and which of the various means may be most suitable for the removal of the mark. (Copyright National Newspaper Service)

Q. Who are the De Molay Boys and why did they take that name?

A. H. D.
A. The Order of De Molay is a national organization for the sons of Masons and their chums. The boys must be between the ages of 16 and 21. The order is named for Jacques De Molay, the last Military Grand Master of the Order of Knights Templar, an eminent martyr in Free Masonry who was put to death in 1314. The order which bears his name now has 850 chapters and a membership of 150,000 boys.

Q. Which is heavier—dry air or moist air? E. M. R.

A. Dry air is slightly heavier than ordinary humid—not foggy—air. The number of molecules in a given volume of air and the same volume of water in the form of invisible gas under the same conditions; is the same. When such water molecules are introduced into the dry air a corresponding number of air molecules are displaced. The atomic weights of oxygen and nitrogen, the principal ingredients of air, are greater than the atomic weight of water vapor. Therefore since a light substance replaces a heavier one the total weight is less. Foggy or smoky air is quite likely to be heavier than dry air.

Q. What is the length of the groove in a phonograph record? C. P. G.

A. On the disk of a 12-inch record of one standard make, the groove is 8.160 inches or 680 feet in length.

Q. Where is the McNeil Island upon which a Federal prison is located? M. E. L.

A. The Federal Penitentiary at McNeil's Island is situated across Carr's Inlet from Tacoma, State of Washington.

Q. Can I change my name without going into the courts? J. J. M.

A. If you do not care to go into court, you may assume any name you please and ordinary business transactions in the name would be legal. But in doing this there is always the possibility that trouble may result from the adoption of a name without legal recognition in such matters as inheritance.

Q. How much of the wheat is contained in white flour? C. R. W.

A. In modern milling over 70 per cent of the wheat is recovered as standard patent flour, about 17 per cent as low-grade flour, about 2 per cent as Red Dog flour, and the remainder as shorts or bran.

Q. How does the number of women in college compare with the number of men? H. P.

A. The Bureau of Education says that there are 157,525 women enrolled in college in the United States and 334,226 men.

Q. When was Portland cement first used for building construction? V. R. S.

A. It was first used in 1756 for a light house in Eddystone, England.

TWO FLOORS OF GOOD THINGS TO WEAR

WHAT IS GOING ON IN THE WORLD

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

The editorial writer who said the cork Al Smith popped was heard 'round the world spoke a mouthful, judging by the news from places pretty well all over, not only this country, but quite generally throughout Europe and even the Antipodes.

There isn't any question that America's experiment with prohibition has been most interestingly watched from many lands and press comment indicates that foreign observers, who aren't altogether familiar with this country's governmental system, incline to look for immediate results from the New York governor's signature of the state dry repeal bill that can't possibly ensue unless and until the Volstead law's changed also.

Nevertheless wets and dries probably will agree that Smith has put in concrete form, for the first time, the wet demand for amendment of the Volstead one-half of 1 per cent standard up to what the governor calls an "honest, common-sense" dividing line between legal intoxicants and non-intoxicants.

Furthermore it appears to be the consensus of opinion that Smith has made the wet and dry issue one which will count, perhaps predominantly, in the next national campaign.

paign, whether the politicians like it or not.

ENFORCEMENT SLOWS UP

New York has withdrawn its state police border patrol against rum smuggling from Canada.

Commissioner Enright announces his decision to terminate prohibition enforcement duty by the New York City police.

The federal government is rushing dry enforcement agents to New York state from other parts of the country.

The New York State Chamber of Commerce has adopted resolutions asking Congress for a national prohibition amendment on "reasonable, fair, just, practical lines."

The Chicago City Council, by resolution, has complimented Governor Smith of New York for signing the state prohibition repeal.

Representative Britton, Illinois, announces he will offer a bill when Congress meets authorizing light wine and beer, taxing them to provide a soldiers' bonus.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT HAS REFUSED to confer with foreign government's relative to the Supreme Court's ruling that no ship may bring intoxicants, even for use solely on board when at sea, within America's three mile limit. The government's view is that this is the law, so there's nothing to confer about.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon whose job includes enforcing prohibition on ships in port, is understood to have made the rules as strict he can, hoping to force Congress to modify the law.

However, the latest ruling is that these doctors may keep in store such intoxicants as they deem necessary for medicine, which may provide a way out of the difficulty.

OTHER COUNTRIES GROWLING

Spanish ships, which depend largely on anti-Volstead commodities for their cargoes, have canceled their stops at American ports.

France, Italy and Portugal, whose laws, like Spain's, compel their ships to serve wine to their crews, are protesting vigorously against the dry law's application to their vessels in American waters.

In Parliament in London a law is pending requiring ships within England's three mile limit to have intoxicants on board, this being proposed in retaliation for the American dry rule.

The British government is understood to have asked its Washington ambassador to report on the working of prohibition.

Switzerland, by a heavy popular majority, has turned down a proposal to nationalize liquor, as a step toward prohibition.

REVOLUTION IN BULGARIA

Bulgaria's peasant cabinet under Alexander Stambuliski has been overturned and its members locked up, the result of a revolution engineered by the military class.

Prof. Zankov succeeded Stambuliski as premier.

The revolutionists, although they pledged fulfillment of Bulgaria's peace treaty obligations and abstention from "military adventures," favor forcible recovery of territory Bulgaria lost in the Balkan and World wars.

The country may not accept the change quietly. Fighting is reported in many districts.

DOESN'T SUITE FRANCE

Germany has made another reparations proposition to France and Belgium.

It suggests German payment of war damages, beginning in 1927 by a system of "annuities" of about 255 billion dollars reckoned in American money, an international conference to decide how long they must be continued. The money would be raised by a railroad mortgage, a mortgage on commerce and industry, and a luxury tax.

France likes this offer so little that she isn't even answering it. She objects especially to the absence of a German pledge to stop "passive" resistance in the Ruhr. Neither does she want to wait until 1927 before beginning to get any money, nor does she care to leave the total to an international conference's decision.

The British view seems to be that the proposition, while perhaps not yet satisfactory, at least is more than the last one.

M. E. Church Is Planning For Picnic

NEENAH BANK HAS FORMAL OPENING

Formal opening of the new building of the National Manufacturers Bank of Neenah was held Saturday. The structure is considered one of the ten most elaborate and beautiful bank buildings in the country. Its opening marks the completion of more than 41 years of business for this concern which was founded by Neenah's pioneer business men.

One of the most fool proof burglar alarms that has ever been installed in a bank is in the new structure. The walls, doors and windows have been so constructed that any attempt to enter the building unlawfully will be accompanied by the ringing of the loud alarm bell which may be heard for blocks.

Hiram Smith was the first president of the bank, which was established in November, 1881 with a capitalization of $65,000. Other officers and directors were: D. C. Van Ostrand, vice president; R. P. Finney, cashier; F. C. Shattuck, Alexander Ellstein, Henry Sherry, Charles Schreiber and S. M. Hay, directors. Others who were connected with the bank in its early days were C. B. Clark, John R. Davis, C. W. Howard, I. B. Hamilton, William Kelleit, S. B. Morgan, and W. G. Brown. Mr. Brown is the present cashier and has behind him a service record of 35 years in the bank.

Clarinetist Who Won Fame In France Now Member Of Local Organization

Several musicians, acquired since the public concerts last summer and winter will take part in the concert by the 121st artillery band in City park Monday evening. The acquisition of these stars has given new strength to the band and are expected to add to the reputation which the organization already has.

Among these new men is William Taber, one of the finest clarinetists in the state. Mr. Taber, who is employed in Appleton as a painter, was solo clarinetist for Theodore Steinmetz when that famous musician directed the Thirty-second division band in the state. Mr. Taber achieved a wide reputation overseas.

Another star musician recently acquired is Charles Colle, employed in Appleton as a tailor, who plays the flute. Mr. Colle also has fame on his instrument and is a valuable addition to the band.

Largely through the efforts of Director Percy Fullinwider, Ben Coler has been induced to join the band as snare drummer. He is an expert on this essential to band music.

The band organization is making efforts constantly to find employment for good musicians in Appleton. Employers can help develop the organization here by giving steady employment to musicians who would locate here if they could find suitable work.

CAR IS DAMAGED WHEN CROWDED OFF HIGHWAY

Three automobiles coming together near Waters brothers farm in Center at about 11 o'clock Friday night have been ruined and their occupants seriously injured except for a streak of luck. A Ford car and a Nash car were about to pass each other, when suddenly a Hudson car with a Milwaukee nameplate whizzed between the two other cars at a rate of about 50 miles an hour and kept on going. The Nash was forced off the concrete, and the abrupt application of the brakes and the car skidding off all the spokes of the right rear wheel.

Sweater Has Become Real Fashion Article

The most popular type of garment shown for women is the sweater. It has reigned majestically for the last three years and with each succeeding season it appears in prettier styles and colors and seems to become more popular in proportion.

The sleeveless sweater predominates this season and may be had in almost any color or combination of colors desired. These models of fine or brushed wool and the slipover sweaters which blouse above a belt which ties tightly over the hips.

The demand for all types of sweaters has been so great that it is almost impossible for stores to keep a select variety in stock. As soon as a new shipment arrives the sweaters are snatched up so quickly that the choice is gone. The better grades of sweaters is in demand this year.

The general trend of women's clothes this season is along sport lines and sweaters with blouses and skirts which harmonize as to colors have, because of durability, looks and comfort, apparently been scoring a hit and then holding their own. Not only has the knit garment become an ideal outfit for the school girl but others find it convenient and becoming and consequently have accepted it as "the thing."

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO HER YOUNGER SISTER, ALICE HAMILTON

DEAR LITTLE SISTER:

I have just had a letter from Vera Stockley. You know she started for London a day or two after my wedding to join her family.

She tells me that your little friend Betty is writing a book and that it has the weirdest plot which involves a string of pearls. I have an intuition that you two girls have in some way patched up a story about my pearl beads.

You seemed rather surreptitious and mysterious about them when you gave them to me. Now that I have had time to think over them I have become rather curious about them.

Everyone admires them so much. Jack said the other day that they were the loveliest imitations he had ever seen. He makes me wear them on all occasions.

I wore them the other night to a restaurant dinner and a man at the next table eyed me so much that Jack told me he was going over to punch his head until I called his attention to the fact that the man was not looking at me at all but at my beads.

"That makes it worse," said Jack, and I think he would have gone over and jabbed him if the man had not paid his check and left.

"Write me all about the circumstances of their purchase. I am sure they were not originally purchased in this country. Jack says they were probably made to imitate a string of real pearls whose owner did not want always to wear her real stones. He says they would be worth a fortune if they were real."

Tell me about your friend Betty Stockley's book. I'll bet you had a hand in it, you sly puss.

All the wedding presents came yesterday, including that lovely desk that Jack's mother gave me. Fortunately I had just signed the lease on the luckiest little apartment, and I had all the boxes and barrels delivered there.

Jack is very busy just now as the company has many new contracts on its books, so I am not going to let him see the apartment at all until it is all furnished and ready for us to move in.

As soon as your school is out I want you to come and make us a long visit, little sister.

Tell mother everything came splendidly and that my hand is almost well.

I will write her very soon.

Lots of love, dear,

LES.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO HER MOTHER-IN-LAW, MRS. MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT

DEAR MRS. PRESCOTT:

I cannot resist writing you to tell you again how beautiful your lovely desk is that you gave me for a wedding present.

I have made it the one thing in my living room around which I have centered everything.

Jack tells me you wrote him about my hand. Do not worry any more. It is all well now.

I hope you will find it convenient to come and see us very soon and then you will see how beautifully your exquisite desk helps to furnish our little apartment.

Cordially yours,

LESLIE HAMILTON PRESCOTT.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

A Radio Message

"Sh!" said the Tinker Man softly. "What is it?" whispered Nancy and Nick tiptoeing up as quietly as two little mice and as curious as two little squirrels.

The Tinker Man lifted the lid off a big box that had just come to Bing-Bang Land, then clapped it right on again.

But not before the Twins had time to see rows and rows of brand new tin soldiers with helmets on their heads and rifles in their hands.

"I don't want them to hear," whispered the Tinker Man. "I don't want these new soldiers to know that there is a war going on here, for they would jump right out of the box and go to help their comrades."

"Why don't you let them go?" asked Nick. "If one side wins then the war will be over."

"Oh, but you don't know that all the toy soldiers in Bing-Bang Land are for Christmas presents? A nice lot there will be if they keep on shooting each other's arms and legs off. No, sir! I'll just lay this box away carefully and not let these soldiers out at all. Then I'll have at least a few new ones for Santa that don't need patching."

Just then the radio on his table went bng-bng-brr-brr-brrrr!

Nick put the thingamajig over his ears to get the message.

"It's General Hobbledehoy talking," he said. "He wants to know if his other tin soldiers have come yet. He says he wrote to the Toy Maker that his army was too small and to send him some new men at once."

"All right! All right!" sighed the Tinker Man. "I suppose these are the ones. Tell him I'll march them over right away."

"I can't help it if all the little boys get tipped tin soldiers for Christmas this year. If Johnny Jones gets a soldier with an eye out and Sammy Smith gets one with his arms off, I'm sure I can't help it. I've done all I can to stop them."

BOOSTERS START ORGANIZATION TO BOOM CHAUTAUQUA

W. P. Hagman Heads Group Of Businessmen To Sell Tickets

Kaukauna—Not more than a dozen of the 62 guarantors who will assure the financial success of this season's Mutual Well Chautauqua were present at the meeting at the public library Friday evening. The meeting was held, however, and a business organization was perfected. W. P. Hagman was chosen president; H. S. Cooke secretary and George Dogot, treasurer.
After some discussion it was decided best to secure ticket committees on each side of the river and Hugo W. Hagman was elected chairman of the south side committee while C. D. Towles was chosen at the head of the north side committee. John McCoy, editor of the Kaukauna Times, was elected chairman of the advertising committee and Richard H. McCarty was selected to serve on the grounds committee.
The price of a season ticket was fixed at $1.50. According to the contract signed by the guarantors, they must take 10 season tickets and if they are unable to sell them, pay for them. This method will assure the local management slightly more than the feeble cost of the Chautauqua will be $1.100. It is expected that the additional $200 necessary will be raised by single admissions. The price to be paid by those who have no season ticket and desire to attend the programs was not decided upon. There was considerable difference of opinion on that subject and the matter was left until a meeting can be held with the advance man who will arrive about two weeks before the Chautauqua.
Season tickets for children will sell at half price. All children 15 years old or under will be eligible to enter the Chautauqua on a children's ticket. The dates for the event are July 17 to 21 and the site probably will be pitched on municipal play grounds. If the Chautauqua makes a profit it will be given to the local post of the American legion.

MISSION HOUSE TEACHER SPEAKS IN REFORM CHURCH

No Services In Congregational Church Until Pastor Returns

Special to Post-Crescent
Kaukauna—Prof. F. Grether, instructor of practical theology in Reformed Mission house near Plymouth, will occupy the pulpit during German services Sunday morning in Reformed church. The summer schedule is in effect. German services will begin at 10:30 following English services which begin at 9:30. Sunday school will convene at 8:30. Members of the congregation have been invited to attend the twentieth anniversary celebration of the First Reformed church in Green Bay.
The Methodist church will hold regular services Sunday. New members will be received into the congregation during morning worship at 10:30 when the pastor will preach on "The crown of life." Christian citizenship will be his subject at the evening services.
Services have been discontinued in First Congregational church during the summer until the return of the pastor, the Rev. Daniel Woodward, who is traveling as a Chautauqua speaker. Sunday school will meet at 10 o'clock, however. The Ladies Aid society will hold its regular meeting Wednesday, June 20 or the home of Mrs. Edward Zekind. A letter was received from the pastor Friday stating that his Chautauqua group will be at Hortonville the early part of July. An effort will be made to secure a large representation of the local congregation to visit Mr. Woodward while he is at Hortonville.

DARK OUTLOOK FOR KAUKAUNA BASEBALL

Early Reports Indicate Difficulty In Selling 1,000 Tickets

Kaukauna—Chairmen of two or three of the committees which are at work selling season tickets for the Kaukauna Baseball association turned up to attend the meeting called for Friday evening in the council rooms. Such reports as were available were made to John Coppes and it was evident that while some committees are blazing away in great shape, others are finding it hard to sell tickets and indications are that instead of getting rid of 1,000 tickets the organization will do well to dispose of 50. Kaukauna's club cannot remain in the Wisconsin State circuit with that showing.
Mr. Coppes, who is still acting as president, has said that the public might as well be aware of the facts now as later. He will inform T. E. McGillan, president of the league, that he is ready to report on the progress of Kaukauna's plan whenever a meeting of the directors is called. It is understood that President McGillan has been waiting for the Electric City to carry out its plan of selling season tickets before further action is taken.
It is evident that those committees which are successfully selling their tickets are hard at work while those which are not reporting success are not making the attempt which is necessary to put across a big scale. Mr. Coppes believes that in this case of absolute necessity, people will take 1,000 season tickets if they are impressed with the fact that Kaukauna cannot remain in the state circuit in any other way.

FREEDOM CRUSHER IS SOLD TO MURPHY

Town Agrees To Buy Crushed Stone From New Owner For Three Years

Special to Post-Crescent
Freedom—The stone crusher and tractor owned by the town of Freedom have been sold to Frank Murphy for $360. The deal includes a contract made by the township to purchase 2,000 yards of crushed stone annually for three years from Mr. Murphy.
Mr. Murphy was the highest bidder of those seeking to buy the equipment. A committee appointed by the town advised that the crusher would be sold in this manner. Members of this committee, appointed at the recent town election, are John McHugh, town chairman, and John Groat and Thomas Byrnes, supervisors.
It had been found that the expense of operating the crusher was more than the town could stand. A special election was held at which the people voted down the proposal to sell the equipment at auction but the officials decided this was the most economical move.

Water Power Is Good Investment Says R. Babson

Financial Expert Tells How To Get Safety In Placing Funds. Important In View Of Recent Brokerage Failures

Schenectady, N. Y. June 16, 1923.—Recent brokerage failures have tended to emphasize once more the continued loss suffered by the investing public. Losses from unsound practices in brokerage concerns can be overcome by proper regulation. Losses from investment in poor securities cease, however, only when the investor becomes more skillful in the selection of his securities.

Roger W. Babson says that the investor needs the spirit of service. "The reason people lose money on many of their investments is due to the fact that they select them with an eye only to possible profits without considering the service rendered," says Mr. Babson. "If you will be sure instead, to put your money where it will render a service, profits will come almost automatically. I have just been visiting the sites of some proposed water power developments in the Adirondacks and water power to me, constitutes the most fascinating field for sound investment."

"In New York States alone there is 4,000,000 horse power available which is now going to waste. The development of this idle water power would, in a year, save in coal the equivalent of a train of loaded coal cars extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific and back again. The Panama Canal was ten years in building. During this time the available water power wasted in New York State would have been sufficient to transport into the state the five Panama Canals. This is figuring a horsepower worth $50.00 a year."

TREMENDOUS WASTE
"Someone has figured this waste in the terms of food and found it equivalent to 4,250,000 loaves of bread a day. Thus, when this waste in one state of New York alone is translated into commodities it is found to be sufficient to supply the bread requirements of that entire state. When you consider that the population of this state is nearly one-tenth the population of the United States, you gain some idea of how enormous this waste is; a waste which needs only capital and Government co-operation to develop for the service of man."

"Water powers are a comparatively permanent investment. In the case of railroads and even steam power plants, there is a high rate of depreciation. If this depreciation is allowed to continue, the efficiency of operation is greatly reduced. In a water power plant the depreciation is a comparatively small item. Water power plants are almost independent of the fluctuations in the labor and commodity markets. This means that when profitable rates are once fixed by the company or a state commission, the profits are not liable to be absorbed by an increase in either wages or commodity prices. Of course, there are a few other lines of business which offers a similar advantage, but they also enjoy this advantage owing to the service which they render."

A GREAT DEMAND
"There is a constantly increasing demand for household electrical appliances, and an increasing number of homes are availing themselves of the convenience of electricity. Further, more and more factories and mills are being electrically equipped, in place of steam driven. This all means that the use of electricity is constantly increasing. Here is a resource which nature has given us. It needs but capital and legislation to put it to the service of man. By its development and use millions of homes will be brighter and the work of millions of housewives easier. Scores of communities will be cleaner and more healthy as electric power is used in place of coal. Thus, in water powers, invested capital can be of real service, and in the measure that it serves, it will profit."

"Business is still holding up notwithstanding the pessimistic views of certain stock market operators. The Babsonchart shows general activity at 1 per cent above normal compared with 17 per cent below normal for the same time last year. Whatever may happen next year, business is normal today,—not over-expanded nor depressed. Those who try to render service instead of scalping commissions have nothing to fear."

PAPER, MACHINERY, WOOD, KNIT GOODS LEADING INDUSTRIES

The dominant industry in the Central Fox River valley is, of course, the paper manufacturing group. The paper industry, representing 65 per cent of all manufacturing, has grown until the value of paper products reached, in 1922, the approximate sum of $34,000,000.

It is a natural sequence to the dominant nature of the paper industry that organizations engaged in the manufacture of machinery and materials entering into the making of paper should find appropriate location in the Central valley. This group represents the second most significant branch of manufacturing. Included therein are the manufacturers of pulp, papermill machinery, wire cloth, watermarking rolls, wood-mill supplies, felts and jackets and metal specialties. It is estimated that this group's output in 1922 was $13,000,000.

Next in line come the paper converting plants, of which there are nowhere near enough. The field of opportunity has only been scratched in the paper converting branch of local manufacturing. The small number of such concerns, large though some of them are, are all running continuously at full capacity. Output in 1922 was approximately $10,000,000.

Wood products represent the fourth great avenue of manufacturing output. Butcher blocks, die blocks, cutting tables, wood specialties, lumber, hubs, spokes, hardwood doors, sashes, blinds, pails, tubs, kegs, barrels, car movers, furniture, toys, railroad ties, cheese boxes, egg cases, banana crates, etc., are to be found in this classification covering an approximate output in 1922 of $8,000,000.

The knit goods group is next, including sweaters, socks, hosiery, mittens, toques, gloves and blankets, totaling a 1922 production of about $6,000,000.

Detailed reviews of these great manufacturing groups will appear on this page from time to time.

CENTRAL FOX RIVER VALLEY CITIES HAVE TRUE GREATNESS

An eminent authority on "The Development of Municipalities in the United States," when asked what makes a city great, said: "First, it should have one dominant industry that is absolutely essential to the continuance of civilized life; second, it should possess, in addition, a sufficient number of diversified industries so that when a period of depression sets in the dominant industry, the commerce of the town will not take a definite backward step; third, it should be in close proximity to important sources of supply and markets, so that overhead costs will permit it to compete with cities equally favored in other sections; fourth, it should be a city gifted by nature with advantages that make it a desirable place in which to found a permanent home; fifth, it should be a healthful city, with reference to its water supply and waste disposal; sixth, it should be a city in which the education of the young is considered paramount to any other activity in life, and seventh, it should be a city of many home owners."

He might well have spoken specifically of the cities of the Central Fox River valley, all of which measure up to his seven axioms of municipal greatness.

VITAL STATISTICS ARE HERE REVEALED

Appleton has 83 manufacturing organizations; Menasha, 35; Neenah, 33; Kaukauna, 15; Kimberly 2 and Little Chute, 1. Capital invested in Appleton industries amounts approximately to $15,000,000; in Menasha, $6,800,000; in Neenah, $6,000,000; in Kaukauna, $5,300,000; in Little Chute, $2,500,000 and in Kimberly, $1,550,000. Eighty per cent of buildings carrying on manufacturing are owned by the occupants. Appleton Industries give employment to approximately 5,100 persons, with a grand total payroll of $5,600,000. Menasha, 2,300 with a payroll of $2,530,000; Neenah, 1900, with a payroll of $2,100,000; Kaukauna, 1,450 and a payroll of $1,700,000.

CENTRAL FOX RIVER VALLEY HAS DIVERSIFIED INDUSTRIES

The Central Fox River valley, including the urban towns of Neenah, Menasha, Appleton, Little Chute, Combined Locks, Kimberly and Kaukauna, and the interspersed and adjacent rural and semi-rural communities, was one of Nature's finest handiworks when civilized man first set foot on its soil. For manufacturing purposes it was, so to speak, made to order.

The marvelous and inexhaustible energy stored up in the various units of water power existent in the Fox River was Nature's choicest gift to the people of this section. Add to this the fact that close proximity to supply of raw materials such as timber, pulp, rags, iron, coal, copper and pure water was a second gift from nature, and one may well say that the people of the Fox River valley live in one of the favored sections of the entire country. And then, with three great railroads providing a splendid outlet of finished products to markets so comparatively close as Chicago, Milwaukee, Indianapolis, Kansas City, St. Louis, and Minneapolis, among the leading metropolises of the land, one can conclude, in a grand summary of the advantages surrounding manufacturing, that the Central Fox River valley is favored by Nature and circumstances in excess of almost any other section in the nation.

Add to these natural and acquired advantages, the additional fact that the 60,000 inhabitants of the central valley are endowed with unusual capacities of initiative, resourcefulness, and energy for capitalizing upon their opportunities, and one might appropriately exclaim, "Everything has been sold to the skill and labor of the people of the Central Fox River valley; Nature has endowed them with the most precious of materials, and where they were rude and unfinished, the people's industry, ever active and intelligent, refined them from their natural state, and fitted and are fitting them for human use and convenience."

The recent Prosperity and Advancement edition of The Post-Crescent revealed the fact in classified form that the Central Fox River valley is one of the most fruitful manufacturing sections per capita of population in the whole United States. It could comfortably subsist almost unto itself were opportunity for outside buying suddenly to cease, so diversified are the nature of its industries.

Some of the absolute essentials of life manufactured in this section include various food products, clothing, shoes, knitted products, paper products, machinery, brooms, blankets, candy, ice cream, books, boxes, electric motors, electrotypes, furnaces, gloves, hair pins, inks, kegs and barrels, lumber products, pails and tubs, patterns, printed matter, pumps, pulleys, rugs, radiators, auto bodies, stoves, sweaters, shirts, pants, sewer pipes, screen plates, show-cases, signs, soaps, toys, thermometers, tractors, wire products, wool, yarn, trucks, socks, potato peelers, silos, stoves, marble and granite products, hubs and spokes, glass novelties, flour, cigars, car movers, blowers, and automobile accessories.

Other things being equal, it may be assumed that people will buy goods made at home; providing the trade names of "home-made" goods are known to them. Knowledge of and confidence in the integrity of the manufacturer is an important factor in moving people to purchase certain brands. This knowledge and confidence in the industries of the Central Fox River Valley is, of course, enjoyed by people of this section, because of intimate knowledge of their executive personnel and operating practices.

But a recent survey brings to light the startling fact that the trade-marked brands of some local manufacturers are not generally known locally. There is a certain nationally popular garment made in Appleton, the existence of which was not even known by a leading local merchant until it was brought to his attention in The Post-Crescent's special issue. If a merchant in business here for years did not know of this product, surely there must be thousands of potential possible buyers who never heard of it.

The Post-Crescent, therefore, is going to endeavor to create a widespread knowledge of any demand for Central Fox River valley products, through the medium of a special page each week devoted to editorial and advertising matter setting forth the names and merits of products made locally. This page will appear every Saturday under the banner heading "DEMAND CENTRAL FOX RIVER VALLEY PRODUCTS." Descriptive articles of local industries and products, and current business reviews by business and financial experts will be a feature of the editorial matter.

When in the market for any articles advertised on this page insist upon getting the merchandise or services of home industries. Only reputable "home-made" products and services will be allowed on this page. Every article or service offered will carry the guarantee of a manufacturer whom you either know personally or whose integrity and reputation for square dealing is known by your banker or other business adviser. And you will always be privileged personally to make an inspection of the plants where the articles advertised on this page are made.

Start in today. Insist on getting "home" products. The merits of some are described and pictured on this, the first of a series of similar pages.

ART AND ENGRAVING SERVICE AVAILABLE

The Menasha Printing & Carton Company is one of the Central Fox River valley's largest and most important firms. With general offices at Menasha and factories at Menasha and Wausau, the company employs 500, and operates six departments: carton, waxed paper, ice cream and oyster pails, engraving and art, electrotypes and ink. The growth of the company's engraving business has been unusually rapid. In 1919, the volume warranted the installation of a complete plate-making plant, in which is made every square inch of material used by the engraving department. The most modern machinery obtainable and the highest grade expert workers secure complete the company's equipment for rendering quick, quality and reasonable-priced service to customers in the Central valley. On any but the most involved orders, 24 hour service is available to local concerns. A staff of artists are qualified to serve the most exacting demands of the trade. The company does no commercial printing, confining themselves in the printing line to their specialized products. Officers of the company are S. H. Clinebinst, President; G. S. Caylord, Vice President and General Manager; G. W. Heisler, Treasurer, and W. A. Brooks, Secretary. The company made most of the cuts and handled the art work for the recent Advancement and Prosperity Edition of the Post-Crescent.

NEED NO LAW FOR DAYLIGHT SAVING

Tuttle Press And Other Places Advance Hours—Plan Is Success

The summer time schedule of employment at Tuttle Press is working out satisfactorily. The plan was inaugurated there about two or three years ago and again went into effect a few weeks ago. Employees under this plan begin work at 6:30 in the morning and finish at 4:30 in the afternoon.

It was introduced a few years ago upon the special request of the employees themselves in order that they might have the benefit of the cool mornings for their work in the shops and the extra hour at night to work in their gardens.

Now that Gov. Blaine has signed the bill prohibiting the use of the daylight saving plan in Wisconsin cities, a number of industries in those cities where the plan had been in use have adopted the Tuttle Press idea, which probably serves the same purpose. The office force at the Kimberly-Clark company at Neenah is also using the plan.

Can You Afford To Speculate?

Every time you buy something you are either speculating or making a definite investment.

Few people can afford to speculate. Yet many do it continually, in making their everyday purchases. And it is so unnecessary! The advertisements make it easy for anyone to avoid taking a chance.

The manufacturer or distributor who advertises realizes that the good-will of his customers means money in the bank for him. He knows that public confidence in his product and public respect for his own character are as valuable as his credit at the bank.

So he makes the individual satisfaction of his patrons, their loyalty and their friendship paramount issues in his business.

When you buy an advertised product or service, you can know in advance what to expect in return for your money. You can count on its being right. You are making an investment.

But when you buy nameless, unbranded merchandise, you are taking a chance. You are speculating!

Know what you buy.

But the princess raised her slim jeweled hand, and spoke thus: "Too late, Your Honor! I been married to his Royal Highness the Earl of Prikow, and it serves you right the way you done both of us!"

The duke fell into a great rage at this. He refused to believe it, and threatened to annul the marriage.

"Oh, you can't do that," tittered the princess. "We was married by the Royal Justice of the Peace and— we got two children."

Here was a blow! The duke was crushed, until a happy thought came to him. If cruel fate prevented him from claiming the Princess Pensacola for a bride he would take her for a mother. He had always wanted a mother, anyhow; lack of maternal care it was that accounted for his wildness—it was enough to ruin any duke—and mothers were much nicer than wives. They were much harder to get, also.

"Lord! I wish you mean it!" Ma exclaimed, in a matter-of-fact tone. "I wish Allie was a real princess. Mebbe—"

Gray broke in with a laugh. "There! You've spoiled the play. The duke has fled."

Mrs. Briskow's wrinkled face beamed. "Think of a great big man like you playin' pretend with a foolish old woman like me! I thought you had more sense."

"I live in my own land of 'pretend,' just as you do. Why, I have a real princess of my own."

"Honest?"

Gray nodded. "The Princess of Wichita Falls. Would you like to hear about her? Well, she's small and dainty, as princesses should be, and her eyes are like bluebellies. Ma, I send her roses, mostly, so they can kiss her cheeks for me. A tiny yellow love bird in a tiny yellow cage sings her awake every morning. I taught it to sing the song it warbles, but—she'll never understand what the little bird is trying to say."

Ma Briskow had listened with rapt attention. Now, she inquired, "Does she love you?"

"Didn't I tell you this was my game of pretense?" Gray said, easily.

As the two entered the hotel grounds, Gus and Allie hurried to meet them.

At sight of her husband's face Ma inquired, in sudden anxiety, "What's wrong, Gus?"

"It's Buddy," Allie declared.

"Taint serious," Briskow said. "And it is, too. He's left school—run away! Here, Mr. Gray, see what you make out of it."

Gray read aloud the letter that was handed to him, a letter from the principal of the institution that he himself had recommended, stating that Ozark had disappeared without leaving the college authorities the courtesy of leaving an address. As to Ozark's safety, there was no immediate cause for apprehension, for he had taken with him three trunks of clothing, a high-powered touring car, and a Belgian police dog; but certain of the young man's exploits that had come to light since his departure aroused grave doubts in the principal's mind of his moral well-being.

"What's it mean?" the mother inquired.

"It means that Buddy has taken a vacation. How much money has he?"

"He's got plenty," Gus declared. "More'n is good for him!"

"If what?" Ma queried.

Gus halted; it was Allie who answered: "If he's done what we think he's done—gone away after some woman."

"Some woman?" Ma stared blankly from one face to another. "Buddy in love? Why, he never wrote me nothing about bein' in love!" Reading a further message in her husband's expression, she cried, fiercely: "He's a good boy. He wouldn't take up with—with nobody that wasn't nice. What makes you think it's a girl?"

"I didn't say 'girl,' Ma. I said woman. Buddy's been writin' to me and—"

"What's the difference? Mebbe he's in love with some nice young woman an' they've run away to get married. Buddy's handsome, and they got nice women everywhere—"

"Love? With all his money? And him—love up to fractions?" Allegheny laughed scornfully.

Gus Briskow wiped his face with a nervous hand. "I'm most sick over it," he confessed. "The professor has written me a couple times about him. Buddy's gone kinda wild I guess, drinkin' an'—"

"Drinkin', eh?" Gray was frowning. "The woman part I don't care so much about—he'll probably get over that if it isn't too serious. But whiskey! That's different. I'm responsible for that boy; in a manner of speaking, I adopted him because—well, because he flattered me by pretending to admire me. It was a unique experience. I took Buddy for my own. Will you let me handle this matter?" The speaker looked from one parent to the other, and they saw that his face was grimly set. "Give me some way and I'll bring that young rascal to time or—"

He shrugged, he smiled faintly. "Give me permission to treat him as if he really were my own, will you?"

"You got my leave," said the father; but Ma Briskow bristled. "Don't you daat to hurt him," she cried.

"You can't beat anything into Buddy's head." It was Allie speaking. "After all, he's grown up, and what right has anybody got to interfere with him? S'pose it is a woman? S'pose she is after his money? It's his. Men can get what they want by payin' for it. An hour, a day, a week of happiness! Ain't that worth all Buddy'll have to pay? I'd pay. I'd go through torture the rest of my life—"

"Allegheny Briskow!" the mother exclaimed.

"Well, I would." The girl's voice broke, a sudden agitation seized her; in passionate defiance she went on: "What's the use of wantin' something all your life and never getting it? What's the money for if you can't buy the one thing you want worst of all? That's where men have got the best of it; they can buy love. I wish I was a man; I wish I was Buddy! I'd have my day, my week, and as much more as I could pay for. I'd have happiness that long if it broke my heart. But I'm a girl!"

It was with a sudden interest that Gray studied the speaker. Here was a side to the Briskow character that he had not suspected, and it gave him a new light upon Buddy, for brother and sister were much alike. It showed him more clearly the size of the task he had volunteered to undertake. He heard the father speaking, and reluctantly withdrew his eyes from Allie's flaming face.

"He likes you, Mr. Gray, an' mebbe you could keep him from spollin' his hull life. That's what he's liable to do an'—I'm skeered. He wouldn't listen to me. Boys don't listen to their fathers."

"I'll find him, Gus, and I will put detectives on the case, and they will report to me at Wichita Falls. As soon as they discover his trail, I'll go. Buddy's gone."

"You got to leave us?"

"I must. I've just received a telegram from my—my agent. About the purchase of a well. It is a matter that can't wait."

"I can't thank you for all you done for us. We was in bad shape till you come. Now—"

"Now everything is straight again. That's my job, Gus—to do little odd favors for those I love. You must stay here, for Ma's happy, and this place is making a girl of her. Allie is doing wonders with herself, too. By the way, she needn't be lonely any more; I've talked to some of the guests, and they want to make friends with her. She'll find them nice people, and you must make her meet them halfway. Perhaps she'll become interested in some decent young fellow. I'd like that, wouldn't you?"

"Would ye?"

The tone of this inquiry caused Gray to glance more keenly at the speaker, but Briskow's bright eyes told him nothing.

"Why, naturally. Allie is becoming more attractive every day, and she is going to make something of herself. She is going to 'do us all proud.'"

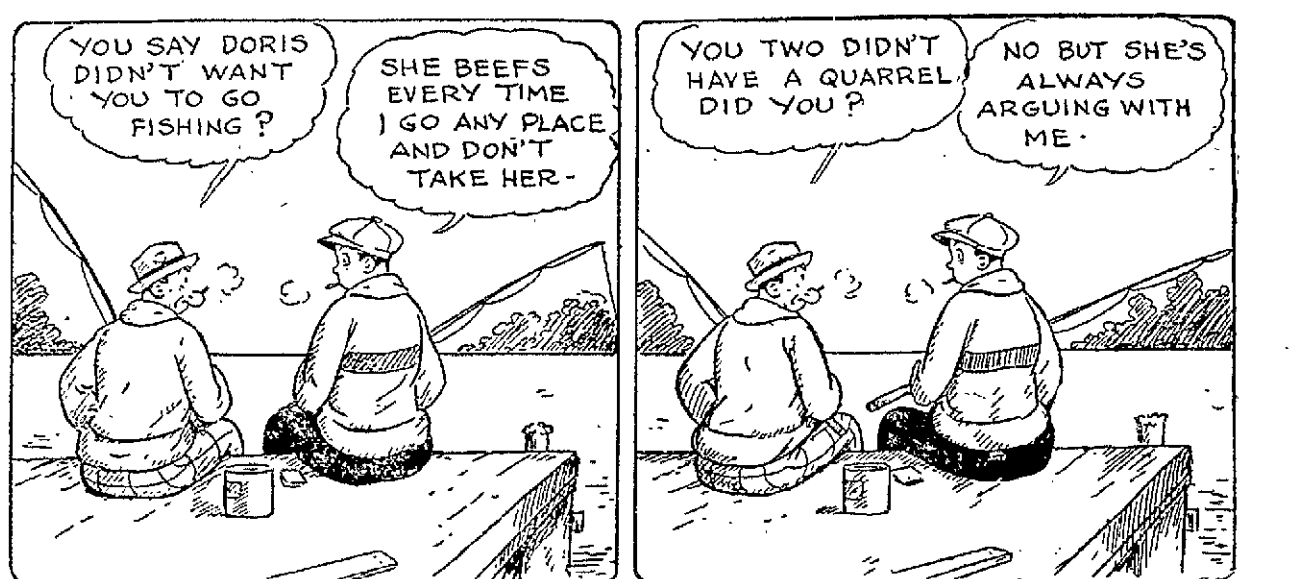

As soon as he was alone Gray eagerly reread his telegram from Wichita Falls. It was from Barbara Parker—the first by the way, that he had ever received—and he smiled at the girl's effort to be thoroughly businesslike, and at the same time to convey the full urgency of her message. Why had she economized on words when everyone was precious to him? Buy that well! Of course he would, if she so earnestly desired it. But what was better by far than the prospect of a profitable purchase was the fact of her personal interest in him. When it came to the last line of her message, "Bob" had plunged into a ten-fold riot of extravagance.

"The bird is darling. I have named him after you."

NORTHERN ROADS IN POOR SHAPE, TOURISTS SAY

Patrolmen Are Putting Forth
Less Effort Than In Last
Two Years

Roads to the fishing resorts in northern Wisconsin are not in as good condition as last year, according to reports from tourists and travelers. Patrolmen are not putting forth as much effort as in the last two years, it is said.

Quite a good deal of sand is encountered in the neighborhood of Mountain Lake. Last year the sand was treated so that going was not hampered but so far this year traveling has been rather difficult.

Roads in the seventh division of the state highway department are in disreputable condition, especially the Antigo-Rhineland route of highway 29, according to an Appleton automobilist who made the trip Sunday. Roads had not drained off sufficient water since the recent rains. In slight different places the water was standing on the road from six inches to a foot in depth. There were places where road repair work made them almost impassable. A emergency road was provided on two stretches between Elco and Enterprise. Travel here was extremely rough. The driver said that County 29 in Shawano was in much better condition than state highway 29 north of Antigo.

Tourists who like to have destinations in view before setting out on week-end jaunts or for a day's drive are oftentimes beset with the problem of where to go. While this section of the state is amply provided with spots of interest located about the right distance from the Appleton to be reached in time to permit of the return trip being made in comfort the same day, the supply is not inexhaustible and the quest for new places and things to see is always on.

To those who never visited the state fish hatchery at Wild Rose, a distance of about fifty miles from here, such a tour is recommended. Were the institution in a more traveled section of the state, it would probably be a much more frequented place.

The hatchery, which is just west of the village of Wild Rose, is to be best reached from here by going through Winneconne to Omro and thence due west on route 21, passing through Redgranite.

The hatchery grounds in reality form a most delightful park. Benches are provided and tables, where lunches may be spread, and one will delight in the beautiful walks between the chain of pools in the sparkling waters of which are to be seen myriads of trout of the rainbow, and speckled variety with now and then baby sturgeon ambling along the bottom.

Trout are the only fish raised at the Wild Rose hatchery. They are graduated in the pools according to size and one may in a short time allow the development of the prized game fish from the egg stage to the fully developed specimen, a foot or more in length. The trout from the hatchery are used for stocking Wisconsin lakes and streams. Sturgeon act as scavengers in the pools and do not molest the trout, attending to the garbage.

The hatchery grounds are easily accessible by motor, roads penetrating to the very center of the preserve.

M. E. CHURCH WILL OPEN CHILDREN'S VACATION SCHOOL

Handiwork And Object Stories Will Be Provided In Morning Classes

A vacation school for children between the ages of four to twelve years will open Monday morning, June 25, in the social rooms of First Methodist church under the direction of Miss Esther Miller. Classes start at 9 o'clock and continue until noon. The school will close July 21.

There will be no study course, but children will be instructed in handiwork, such as basket weaving, sewing, clay modeling, manual training, charcoal and crayon drawing and stencil work. The smallest children will have a sandbox where they may play and build scenes from stories they have been told. Games will be taught and played at recess in the middle of the morning.

The program for the morning has been arranged something like this: Roll call with answer by quotation or verse after the first week; 15-minute song service; 10-minute Bible or nature story; 10-minute calisthenic exercises; classes for one hour; 10-minute recess; classes one hour; closing exercises.

Children from four to eight years will have separate story telling groups, with perhaps more stories than in the older groups.

An open house and exhibit of the work done during the four weeks will be given on the evening of July 20, the day on which the school will close. Saturday, July 21, the children will be given a picnic at Pierce park as a windup of the summer work.

The faculty will include about eight or ten persons.

In Juvenile Work

Friends of Miss Karen Curtis will be interested to know that she has given up singing as a profession and has been in juvenile welfare work in Corbin, Ky., for nearly a year. Miss Curtis sang in Appleton for three seasons and it is understood she will fill a short engagement at a nearby resort this season.

Best photograph in which Robert Z. Leonard will present Mae Murray, and in it the popular star has more opportunities for histrionic and costume display than has yet fallen to her lot in the pictures she has made. The new Metro photograph is scheduled for presentation on Monday at the Elite theatre, where it will begin a run of 3 days.

Miss Murray's new picture is partly a costume play. The star is seen as the queen of a Balkan kingdom which is beset by enemies. A revolution is impending and she flees to America. Her love of novelty makes her an ardent lover of jazz and when a former subject advises her to return to her country to rescue the women and children who are being mistreated, she decides to go back. She rescues the kingdom and turns it into a republic, where jazz keeps Madame President and her subjects in good humor.

ON THE SCREEN

A NOISE IN NEWBORN

David Butler, who plays an important role in Vialo Dana's new Metro picture, "A Noise in Newborn" now at the Elite theatre, had to figure in an exterior runaway scene as the party of the first part. He was a sceptic about such things, but isn't any more. The proprietor of a Los Angeles hardware store cured him. As Butler came running by, the hardware man drove inside the store and came out with hardware—shooting irons. He raised the gun to a level with his eyes.

"Don't shoot, you fool," cried Butler, raising his hands above his head.

"That gun seemed to be saying 'Laugh me off, if you can' but there wasn't a laugh in me," related Butler.

"A Noise in Newborn" written by Edgar Franklin, and produced by Harry Beaumont, was adapted by Rex Taylor. It was photographed by John Arnold.

"HONOR FIRST" IS NEW JOHN GILBERT FILM

With John Gilbert in the star role, "Honor First," his latest William Fox feature, will open at the Elite theatre Sunday one day only. Press reports from other cities where this picture has been shown accord it high praise. Many who have reviewed the feature assert that Gilbert is at his best.

The story deals with the difference in character and temperament between twin brothers, both of whom served in the French Army during the war. Gilbert portrays both brothers. His work as the cowardly brother is said to be especially worth while. This characterization calls for extraordinary force in acting.

Not only is the story of the picture intensely gripping and worth while, but the photography and direction are declared to be of the best. Jerome Storm, who is fast becoming one of the foremost directors in the film world, staged the picture.

Many of the scenes were photographed under extraordinary conditions and are described as masterpieces of photographic art. When the picture opens at the Elite Theatre Sunday the patrons will be justified in looking for a real treat.

"JAZZMANIA" AN ELABORATE FILM

"Jazzmania" is the title of the latest feature from the Elite Theatre.

Appleton Idle Today As State League Team Juggle Their Standings

Papermakers Travel To Sheboygan For Sunday's Game—League Centers Interest On Battle In Green Bay

Appleton's entry in the Wisconsin State League rests today with six clubs on their staff. The Papermakers, facing a supposedly weaker team on their home grounds probably would have been able to climb in the percentage column but for the fact that several players are tied up with Industrial league teams and are unable to get in the Brautigan uniform.

Tomorrow the squad, accompanied by a bevy of rooters, will journey to the city of chairs, churches and children for an argument with Messers Liebi, Braun, et al. Sheboygan has a rather healthy respect for the Papermakers, in spite of the lacing they administered to the home crew in their meeting here a few weeks ago. Liebi is pinning his faith on the trusty right wing of the ancient Buster who was pitching baseball when College was a mudhole. The lake breezes, which are enough to make any pitcher curl up and whistle for the under taker, seem to be just to the Braun boy's liking. He seems to be about as good this year as in his palmist days.

LATHROP ON HILL
Bill Lathrop, who would be a match for Jack Dempsey in size, has been elected to do the principal arguing with Braun. Bill, when he is going right, is quite handy on a ball club. He has the faculty of making the ball whistle over the home station while the batters stand around sheepishly and occasionally he lands a solid smacker on the marbie, chasing it out to where the daisies grow. Bill ought to be a valuable ally for the army of Brautigan.

The real big doings Sunday afternoon will be at Green Bay where Eddie Stump's crew will debate with Bobby Lynch's hopefuls. Lynch kicked Eddie off the top rung last week and Eddie has been planning a week and a day to even up matters. If Eddie still is within striking distance of the top when Sunday's game starts, there will be a grand little tussle in the Baymen's new arena.

Menasha will tackle Jack Barbeau's renovated Fond du Lac crew on the Menasha field. On dope the Rush tribe ought to send the Barbeaus back with a galaxy of lime. Oshkosh will travel to Marinette Sunday to face the ancient Hankie Schultz who seems to have taken on a new lease of usefulness. Hank, working with a regular catcher, is making the enemy clubs step right lively.

There are quite a few chances for juggling the standings Sunday afternoon and as a result the bugs in these parts are showing considerable interest in what is about to transpire.

SPORT VIEWS AND NEWS

Uncle Sam's golfers failed in the British open championship but Walter Hagen, the 1922 title holder, gave such a brilliant exhibition that right up until the final round, did the Britishers fear that the American would come from behind and carry off the title. Dame Fortune didn't smile any too brightly on Hagen and this coupled with erratic play at times cost him the championship.

President McGillan has laid down the law to the players, managers, and umpires in the Wisconsin State loop. The league prexy aims to shut off the continual bickering on strike and ball decisions. He says the players are out to play, not debate. Hereafter arguments must be left to the field captains of the opposing teams. This order may work out all right but before it is fully obeyed, some of the players are going to knock in with ten spots to the league funds.

Another shake up in the State league percentage table is looked for over the week end. The teams are closely hunched and a couple of defeats run a club down grade in a hurry. The "big" games, Saturday and Sunday, will be played at Green Bay where Neenah-Menasha and Kaukauna, the only two clubs who have beaten the Lynchmen this season, will attempt to pull the Bays from first position.

The Mid-West Industrial league reminds us in one respect of the Fox River Valley league as it went along the first half of the 1922 season. It is just one protest after another and President Smith of Chicago is having a tough job ironing out all the rough spots. Bill Kuhn, who worked in the Kluwin wheel last year, is umpiring in the Mid-West. He must feed right at home among the protests and disputes.

Wild Mathews, the former Brewer, probably is the most talked of recruit infielder in the big show today. Mack's rabbit, as Mathews is called by some of the big league sport scribes, is playing sensational ball in the field and his war club has chalked up a number of wins for the Athletics this season. Hardly a day passes without Mathews getting his name in the box score lead for his brilliant fielding or hitting.

SHELBY BATTLE IS NEARLY CALLED OFF FOR LACK OF FUNDS

Mayor Saves Situation By Quick Work On Telephone With Friends

By Associated Press
Great Falls, Mont.—Goldfield has its Gans-Nelson fight, Reno its battle between Jeffries and Johnson, and Shelby, the cow town nestling in the prairie 100 miles north of here will have its heavyweight championship contest between Jack Dempsey and Tom Gibbons, July 4.

In one of the strangest conferences ever held in the history of prize fighting, an agreement was concluded at an early hour Saturday between Jack Kearns, manager of the heavyweight champion and Great Falls business men to raise the second $100,000 installment of a $300,000 guarantee due Dempsey.

George P. Stanton, tall gray haired president of the Stanton Trust and Savings bank, was the actual savior of the Shelby fight, which last night was threatened with complete collapse and financial failure after the Shelby fight promoters had admitted their inability to raise the $100,000 which was due Kearns before midnight Friday night.

Stanton announced that he would advance $50,000 immediately if assured that the remaining $50,000 would be actually posted. Mayor Jim Johnson of Shelby, treasurer of the American Legion post committee promoting the show, secured pledges for the $50,000 from friends by telephone here and in Shelby within five hours after Stanton offered to advance the $50,000.

Manager Kearns will be paid the money at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The concession on the part of Kearns to wait until this time after the failure to pay him Friday, followed a conference which began early Friday morning, operated in several locations in Great Falls and finally wound up at midnight in the darkened offices of the Stanton bank. Word was sent to waiting newspapermen and Kearns at the bank. "Buy," said Kearns after the compromise was reached, "this or I will wait until Saturday afternoon for my money."

While these negotiations were pending, Dempsey, the champion, was asleep at his camp two miles outside the town unaware that the match came within an ace of being called off half a dozen times during the night.

GYPSY TOUR WILL HAVE 50 ENTRANTS

Half a Hundred Motorcycles Leave For Elkhart Lake Sunday Morning

The Gypsy tour scheduled for Sunday will have more participants than was anticipated. From 45 to 50 motorcycles of Appleton and the vicinity have filed application blanks, and it is expected that several more will appear at the Harley Davidson shop on State-st Sunday morning.

The procession will include solos, side-cars, and every kind of two and three wheeled motor transportation known in town and will leave for Pine point at Elkhart Lake at 7 o'clock Sunday morning. The trip of approximately 40 miles will not consume much time, leaving the rest of the day for amusements of all kinds which the riders are planning to enjoy until their return home in the evening. On the way to Elkhart, it is planned to keep together as much as possible, which will result in a long parade of cycles, such as is seldom seen in this part of the country. No definite time has been set for the return trip as some of the motorcyclists may wish to remain later than the others.

INDUSTRIALS PLAN TENNIS TOURNAYS

Factories Meet At "Y" Tuesday Evening To Map Out Schedule

Acting upon the decision reached in a meeting of the representatives of the Fox River valley factories and the local Y. M. C. A. last February, the Interfactory Tennis committee will meet next Tuesday at the "Y" to map out a tennis schedule for the summer. C. O. Kelley of the Thimmany Pulp and Paper mills is chairman of the committee, and is assisted by Mark Peterson of the Interlake mills, and Clyde Smith of the Kimberly-Clark factory. A. P. Jensen, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., also will be present at the meeting to offer suggestions and help in the organization of the teams. Some of the industrials have been doing great work on the courts this season, according to Director Jensen, and he expects to see the factory men shine quite as brilliantly at this game as they are at the more popular diamond contests.

OSHKOSH SIGNS UP FOUR NEW PLAYERS

Manager Beebe Returns From Search With 2 Moundsmen And 2 Infielders

Oshkosh—Considerably wrought up over last Sunday's defeat at the hands of the Sheboygan tribe, Manager Fred Beebe, accompanied by Durham left Oshkosh Monday morning with the avowed purpose of getting some ball players if he had to go to St. Louis to get them.

He returned Thursday with four new men who, if they live up to expectations, should put Oshkosh up in front fighting for the hunting. Two of those men are pitchers, the other two are infielders. Manager Beebe has announced that the four men will be here to play Saturday and will journey to Marinette with the club on Sunday.

The two pitchers are moundsmen who have been with the Nash Motors in the Midwest league. One is A. Kerr, who according to Manager Beebe, is a brother of the famous "Dickie" Kerr, and the other is Steel who formerly played with Pittsburgh.

THE NEW INFELDERS
The two new infielders secured are Stark a third sacker who formerly played in this league and has been playing with the Pilots in Chicago and also with the Simmons club. It is said that he also had a tryout with Boston. The other man is a second baseman, Ed Koney, who Manager Beebe claims is a fast man with plenty of experience. With these additions, Beebe feels confident that his club will be able to show them all their heels. Keating was called to Chicago this week by the death of his sister, but will be back in the city in time to play.

BRIEF IS RELEASED
Brundage who was imported for last Sunday's game has been released. A medical examination showed that the big boy's arm was injured during spring training. He is having it taken care of and hopes to be able to round into shape and Manager Beebe has promised that he will be signed again if he can get his arm in condition.

TIRES WITH 500 NAIL HOLES LEAK NO AIR
Mr. N. F. Milburn of Chicago has invented a new puncture-proof inner tube which, in actual test, was punctured 500 times without the loss of any air. Increase your mileage from 10,000 to 12,000 miles without removing this wonderful tube from the wheel, and the beauty of it all is that this new puncture-proof tube costs no more than the ordinary tube, and makes riding a real pleasure. JAB BARBEAU GETS THREE NEW PLAYERS FOR HIS FONDU TEAM

Zinke, L. Brielmaier, And Thayer Sign Up With Fond du Lac Tribe

Fond du Lac—The wedding out process is still in vogue with Field Marshal Japple, Barbeau and three new faces will be seen in action when the Red Sox meet Sheboygan on Saturday.

The outfield, which has been quite wobbly for some time, is being bolstered, and Zinke, who has all the earmarks of a big leaguer, is due to play second. Zinke is a real diamond caverter and with a bit more experience under fire will be of much value to the club.

Brielmaier of the Green Bay club will play left field Saturday, and Thayer of East Troy is also slated to perform in one of the outposts. Both are fly chasers of magnitude and won't cause the management any more worry.

Sheboygan is coming over with a gang of good rooters with blood in their eyes. The Chairmakers with the old standby, Buster Braun, on the knoll, were given a bitter trimming on their home lot several weeks ago. With Howard in tip-top shape and the outfield strengthened, our chances for duplicating the stunt are very bright.

NEENAH PLANS BIG REGATTA IN AUGUST

Neenah—At a meeting of the members of the Neenah-Nodaway Yacht club held recently, tentative plans and preparations for the Inland Lake Yachting association regatta to be held in this city in August were made. Neenah plans to make the regatta this year one of the biggest in the history of the association so far as entries and social features are concerned.

Elaborate plans for entertainment of the hundreds of visitors from this and nearby states are being laid, and in order that some of the prizes may be kept in Neenah, new boats of both the A and C classes are being purchased and built.

The annual inter-city races between Oshkosh and Neenah will begin on Saturday, June 23, according to plans made early in the season. The events will be staged each succeeding Saturday until the regatta, first at one city and then the other.

Big Topper Gets Fluke Homer On Ground Ball

St. Louis—Ken Williams of the St. Louis Browns last season led the American League in home runs with 39. Williams at present is showing the way in the American League and hopes to repeat as the leading slugger. If Dame Fortune continues to smile on him as she did in a recent game at Sportsman's Park against the Boston Red Sox, Williams is certain to top Babe Ruth.

It is questionable if there ever was a more unusual home run than that scored by Williams, off Pitcher Bill Piercy. Williams, a left-handed hitter, pulled a curve ball that was inside, down along the foul line. The ball shot by first base on the ground about a foot fair. It continued to hug the foul line and looked to be good for a single, a double at the very best.

The ball was hit so close that the Red Sox right fielder decided to play the ball on the rebound off the pavilion wall, rather than to try to get in
